We recommend checking 2-3 resources before making your decision to follow any book/resource. Other UPSC Study Materials and Guides - Get Here Hope these notes and PDF help you in the journey of your IR subject preparation and overall UPSC preparation. All that information actually comes in the newspaper and it comes in the newspaper with analysis on the editorial page. He then followed it with an MBA from IMI, Belgium. Now, you know you are not aware about the Iranian nuclear deal. IDSA, ORF are not required AT ALL. Question from Pranjal Kumar: should I prepare the website of the IDSA and ORF and all these things? So, there is another country which is in the news which is basically having an election and if that election is basically contested by political parties and the political parties are campaigning on something related to India. When you write an answer if you summarize a particular thing in a diagram you are not able to save words but your answer basically becomes more innovative. Relevance of Lok Sabha TV, Raja Sabha TV - I believe personally is higher for the mains. So, again please restrict No. 1 to the newspaper. Hindu newspaper is a standard newspaper that's okay. His area of expertise here has been International Relations. Because in the mains you know you are packed with the time. Relevance of Newspaper Editorials / Columns Question from Harshita Jain: Are the news on the editorial page is related to elections or issues in the other countries important? Since 2013, he has been associated with Vajiram & Ravi, India's premier institute for the civil services exam, at New Delhi. You know my personal suggestion is nothing to read from the MEA website because the MEA website basically gives you information related to MoUs that have been signed between our agreements that have been signed between India and whatever head of the state we visited or somebody visited us. So, refrain from all the websites which are there they are not basically helpful. That newspaper actually suffices the requirement of UPSC. Now I will share with you the preparation sources for the same, and their relevance in the UPSC Mains exam. I'm agreeing to that but you know you will not be able to understand what do I write in 150 words from there. Then in that case, yes, you have to very carefully follow that. The Hindu newspaper I feel is a good newspaper. For example, elections in Pakistan- Hafiz Saeed- most wanted terrorist in India- is contesting elections through a political outfit that he has created called the Allah hu Akbar tariq. The Book is available at Amazon in both paperback and Kindle format. Hindu newspaper three pages. On R2P there is a higher possibility that it can come at any time. Because examiner will specifically be happy and he will give you one extra mark than your competitor. He has taught various subjects, including Political Science and Current Affairs for almost a decade now. It is this expertise, earned through years of voracious reading and enriched through interactions with thousands of aspirants, that he brings to this textbook. So, yes diagrams do play a very important role. Hence, getting good quality notes is important for students. Please don't forget the fact that UPSC is a left leaning exam and because it's a left leaning exam, Hindu newspaper is a slightly tilted towards the leftist side. This book is good for the civil services aspirants who want to participate in UPSC CSE examination, this book describes every fact related to foreign policy as well as foreign Defence policy. Thanks Pavneet sir Dear students, in the previous part, I discussed the 3+1 format of the UPSC questions on IR/diplomacy, and a brief introduction to the subtopics of IR Syllabus. There is no alternative to it. You are a new aspirant and you started preparing just one month back. You don't know what the Iranian nuclear deal is! My book gives you that Iranian nuclear deal in 2 pages. So, examiner gets bored reading the same answer then and there all the time so if suddenly comes across an answer scribbled there is a diagram where you have written 5 core points it really works. Informative article on India-U.S. trade related issues which have been happening in the recent times. I already said one newspaper is sufficient. You have to watch it after your mains exam for you interview. You will realize that in the International page yesterday 2 pieces of information were important. Pavneet Singh has written a book titled 'International Relations'. So, yes in that case you do have to follow. So try to refrain because there is so much of information that you cannot process and even if you read those articles they are very good articles. Thank you very much. FAQ: Are Pavneet Singh notes enough for International Relations? Yes, it is more than enough. So, please remember you know don't overload yourself by unnecessarily going to websites and bogus blogs and all those things on the internet. So, yes it does have a specific chapter for the UN also. You are going to be in front of 4-5 people interviewing you. In the general studies you don't have to do a research. Continue to follow that. So, ideally No. 1 stick to only 1 newspaper which is the Hindu newspaper. However, it is advised that you should follow at least one more resource. Most of the students found the content to be useful for UPSC CSE Mains & Prelims exam also. Front page, editorial op-editorial page and international page: 1) Front Page The information which will be there on the front page that information will be basic it will tell you ki only, okay, yesterday somebody came or we went somewhere and this event happened. So, I would suggest you restrict to that. So, again the idea is read the country which is there in the news first from the book so that you know the background follow the current from the newspaper that should suffice your job. The word general means that you have a generalist idea not a researcher idea. Anyways, in the next part of this series, I shall explain the art of answer writing for IR/diplomacy. R2P responsibility to protect it's a very advanced and UPSC has not asked a question till date on R2P. So, book basically save your time in that research. Yes it contains international organizations as well Question from Chandu: Does your book contain anything related to the United Nations? However, some students felt that the content was not up to the mark. Example, take the Hindu of 6th of July of 2018. On the editorial page yesterday there was a second article, the second editorial which came, which was basically on India-U.S. relationship. 2) Editorial and Op-Editorial Page Here you have to look out for any article that has come by some expert probably a diplomat or somebody else on that particular country. Indian express... if you want to follow it, it's your personal choice. But before that, let's take a few questions from the students. Relevance of my Book on International Relations Question from Sakshi Agarwal: What is the role of your book on international relations, when we are already preparing from the newspaper? Because in your interview the situation is going to be reverse. Worked at Vajiram and Ravi Studied at University of Delhi Author - International Relations 3rd edition, McGraw Hill education Lives in South, Delhi, India Unacademy Educator since 10th April, 2021 Knows English, Hindi and English In this post, you will get International Relations by Pavneet Singh PDF for your UPSC and civil services examinations preparation. These notes are fully handwritten, scanned and available to download for free. I would still again suggest restrict yourself to Hindu. They are only there to overload you with information and you eventually will neither be able to understand what I will gain. In my book, I have given more than 700 diagrams. It will give you an event, it will explain that event but there will be no analysis. So, if you know the knowledge of these 4-5 topmost people who are there and you are able to know evolve your answer in the interview through the knowledge that you have gained by listening these Raja Sabha TV Shows. Being an optional subject, many students don't take international relations subject seriously. Relevance of Indian express Lot of students ask me whether we should read Hindu or Indian express? You will find articles where they have done analysis of the events. Sir, please remember IDSA and ORF websites are really but the problem again is the same that they are basically research papers. So, through that my idea is to tell you that for every particular topic how can you summarize the issue if you are short of words in a diagram. There is no substitute to it and many of the students who have interacted with me earlier also, they also know about the same thing that I'm very particular about the students following the newspaper. 3) International Page It is very similar to the front page. Remember it's general studies. We are simply giving links that are already available on the internet, to help the IAS and UPSC aspirants. What are the challenge. Relevance of Raja Sabha TV: less for Mains, more for Interview Question from Kumar Dixit: Will big picture of the Raja Sabha TV be helpful? Everything is given there. You have to follow the event, you have to follow the analysis, you have to follow the international page where you have again have to follow the event. Relevance of The Hindu newspaper First and foremost, source for the International Relations remains the newspaper. If you read the MEA website. So, like in the newspaper it mentions that US unilaterally withdrew from Iranian nuclear deal and therefore US-Iran relationship is in a danger. So, if you have to follow all these three pages. Diagrams / Mindmaps given in the book Question from Om Prakash: How do we utilize the diagrams given in your book? Instead, if you know not reading from the book other alternative would be that you would go on the internet and do a research for 4-5 hours, 6 hours waste your time there. But, it can be a highly scoring subject. So, if you read that editorial you will realize that No. 1 that editorial is all about analysis, that editorial talks about analytical survey of India-U.S. relationship. Now, if you proceed from there all the way to the say international page of yesterday. If you have any doubts, please ask in the comments below and do share with your friends. The 1st piece of information was with respect to Sri Lanka. Yes. If the content violates the law or causes any problems, please contact us here. In 2 pages the book gives you nuclear Iranian deal if you read it from there you will be able to understand entire thing and you will be able to understand why US withdrew. We do not own any trademarks or copyrights of any institute name mentioned. So, that's only a glimpse of an event it's not analysis there. This book basically gives you all the background which is not there in the newspaper. It's very helpful but please remember the relevance of big picture is after you give the mains before your interview. Ans. Yes! There is an entire section in my book devoted to the United Nations where the first chapter basically talks about India's relationship with the UN. If this fellow Hafiz Saeed though he is not contesting but his other people who are contesting if they happen to win the election it is going to have a serious repercussion on the relationship between India and Pakistan. International Relations for Civil Services Examinations is an all-encompassing manual on world politics, foreign policy and international relations that is a must-read for all UPSC candidates. MEA Website scrapping ALSO NOT required Question from Akhilesh Kumar: What to read from the MEA website? Moreover, these notes are very concise and easy to understand. Author - Pavneet Singh Sir/Subject - International Relations/Format - PDF/Edition - Handwritten Notes/Language - English Read this book for FREE (Rs. 0) here Get/Download it on Google Drive Here Other UPSC Study Materials and Guides - Get Here Note - This book was neither created nor scanned by Internshipslive. It talks about what India's-UN relationship is and that questions that are there. Good! But not suggested! Because you have to prepare your optional other GS subjects also. Following the completion of his formal education, Pavneet sought to make a mark for himself in the field of the teaching for the UPSC Civil Services exam. So, you really don't have time for all this. A very advanced thing which I have given in the book is basically about India's R2P diplomacy. See! It's good to read, it's not bad to read but even if you follow it regularly make a list of all those MoUs how do you use them in the exam. How to read the Hindu for IR/Diplomacy? You know please remember one thing Om Prakash that I would like to tell through you and to all other people that diagrams are very crucial. You see China-Sri Lanka relationship was there in the news is important for you because India-Sri Lanka relationship is impacted by the Chinese presence in Sri Lanka and then there was a big article again that was again an informative article, information not analysis. Reading 2 or 3 newspapers is good. That is why India wants to become a permanent member of the security council. It is better that you follow the newspaper understand that if a particular MoU was signed in the editorial page they will do some analysis of that focus on that. And considering the paucity of time that you have been doing your preparation. Big picture is a program where 4-5 panelists who are basically discussing a topic. About the author: Pavneet Singh Pavneet Singh graduated with Honors in Political Science from Delhi University. A small article came where basically China-Sri Lanka relationship was there in the news.
